Around the Campfire

Reading: The World Around Us

We will be continuing our new unit discussing the main idea of stories. We will begin reading a story called, "Treasure in the Trees."

Writing: Narratives

Students finished their narratives this week. We will be working on some foundational skills in the next few weeks to improve writing.

Math: Division

Next week, we will begin working with division and learn strategies that go along with it. I think students will enjoy this, as they have a decent grasp on multiplication.

Science/Social Studies:

Economics

During social studies, students will start to learn about economics. More specifically how goods & services have changed over time. We will be doing a service-learning project starting next week. Be on the lookout for more information!

From The Teacher:

We had another great week! Students are starting to understand accountability and their role in the classroom. It has been fun seeing all of your children coming out of their shells and being more responsible. This week we dove deep into multiplication and related it to arrays and finding the area of rectangles. Please practice multiplication facts at home to help their fluency! We have all of our parent-teacher conferences scheduled, we are excited to meet with you all. Also, Candle Fundraising packets were sent home today! This fundraising covers all of our field trip and class expenses for the year (see note). Next week we will continue to explore new 3rd grade topics and ideas, and we are excited to see the growth in each child. Also- school photos came home today! Enjoy the long weekend! 😊 Mrs. Anderson & Miss Knight
